

The future of the Seminary is in your hands!

One proposed model for a new seminary

A new seminary?

The Seminary has rapidly outgrown her walls! We are now faced with a difficult question: should we build a new seminary to accommodate the plentiful harvest of vocations? We own land in Virginia which is perfectly suited to a new seminary, but the final decision is yours!

Your promise, your decision

We are asking you to consider making a promise to donate money towards a new seminary. If we receive enough generous promises like yours towards this cause, we will proceed with the project. In other words, we are asking you to make the decision for us!

Your promise will help us continue our mission of forming the Catholic priests of all time!

The church apse and steeple seen from the outside

“We pursue our work of priestly formation under the guidance of the never-changing Magisterium, convinced as we are that we cannot possibly render a greater service to the Holy Catholic Church...”

— Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre

The decision to build a new seminary depends upon your promise!

Yes! If you build a new seminary, I promise to donate _____ either as a one-time donation, or contributed over a period of time.

No, I do not wish to promise to donate money right now, but if you do build a new seminary, I will donate in the future.

No, I do not wish to promise to donate money right now, and I will not donate towards a new seminary in the future.
